THE EDITOR'S CHAIR.

HOW THINGS LOOK FROM OUR STAND POINT.

The Opinion of The Editor and the Opinion of Others which we Can Endorse on the Various Topics of the Day.

The partisan press (and they are not so much to blame, for they are dupes of the corporation and Wall Street-syndicates known as the united press and associated press that warp and pervert the news through their press dispatches which they send out daily to the world) have been trying to make the world believe that the Alliance was dead in Kansas and other States where elections were held this year. In proof of this they state that the People's party sweep Kansas last year and that this year it has elected only two judges in the whole State. Their first error is in confounding the People's party and the Alliance. The People's party is no more the Alliance in Kansas than is the Democratic party the Alliance in North Carolina. The Alliance has not officially endorsed the People's party in Kansas any more than it has in the Democratic and Republican parties. In short the Alliance has not, will and cannot officially endorse any party. In the second place the People's party did not have a sweeping victory in Kansas last year. It lost its State ticket, but elected nearly every congressman. And why? There are thousands of Alliance men in Kansas who do not belong to the People's party. They voted for the candidates for State and municipal offices in their own parties, but the candidates for congressmen in their parties refusing to support the principles of the Alliance, they voted for the only candidates who did and they were the candidates of the People's party. Hence the defeat of the State ticket and the election of their congressmen. This year the election was for Judges only. The Alliance as a body cares nothing about who is judge, so he is honest and capable. So the members of the Alliance simply looked for that man, or every thing being equal, voted for the nominees of their respective parties. But even if the Alliance and the People's party in Kansas were the same, the elections there would be a hopeful sign. Why? Because the Democrats and the Republicans would never have joined hands in a fight against the People's party if it had not grown stronger since last year—two strong for either party to make a fight against it single-handed.

Before the recent election in New York Rev. Tom Dixon from his pulpit in plain language condemned some of the methods of Tammany and arraigned some of the leaders of the organization and charged them with political crimes, etc. He made a plain statement of facts and challenged contradiction. The papers did not comment on his remarks till after the election, waiting to see which way the wind would blow. Tammany with all of its corrupt methods was successful. Now many papers are jumping on the monster who had the nerve and the moral courage to denounce wrong in high places and to expose the corrupt, occupying high positions. They are presuming to give him advice and lecture him about putting his "gab" into politics. Such papers are degrading journalism by cheering for the winner whether right or wrong. If we had more preachers who would preach a practical religion, we would have less corruption in politics and less dishonesty in business. Would the Christian pulpit had ten thousand Tom Dixon's.

The Southern partisan newspapers are raising a howl because some of the carried a 500 pound bale to the same market, and sold it for $2.34. He paid his taxes, $10, and had $2.34 left. This so demoralized him that he got dead drunk and dead broke. The price for his cotton had contracted, but taxes and one cent a pound for $12; 100 pounds of flour for $18, and had $30 in cash left.

And yet the Government loans: To National Banks at 1 per cent. To Deposit Banks at no per cent. To Central Railroad at no per cent. To Centennial Exposition at no per cent.

To Chicago Exposition at no per cent. To white venders at no per cent.

To all these combinations the United States Government loans money.

The same class of fellows mentioned cry out that the Government cannot establish warehouses and store products. And yet the Government has warehouses in Silver bullion stored.

Banker's bonds stored.

Gold bullion stored.

Imported goods stored.

Whisky stored.

Gold coin stored.

These various things are stored by the United States Government as the property of favored individuals, free of any cost whatever, and distinguished leaders and lawyers who speak of the farmers and politicians as especially urgent, but now how is it? Before, they had not yet questioned or even investigated the unconstitutionality of the law that authorizes the storage of the surplus in politics for doing the very thing they so strongly advised.

Be consistent, men. Surely you can be practical and quietly abide by the acceptance of your counsel.

PRESIDENT POLK'S MASTERLY ADDRESS—HE WILL PROBABLY BE RE-ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION.

(Editorial Special to The Canadian.)

INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA, Nov. 18, '91.
The Supreme Council of the N. F. A. & I. U. met here yesterday. It is a fine body of sturdy manhood representing the wealth-producers of thirty-four States. In addition to the delegates there is a large number of visiting members of the Order from every State. Capt. Alexander, one of the North Carolina delegates, is detained at home by the critical illness of his son, but Prof. English, his alternate, is here in his stead. President Polk had an ovation on his arrival. His masterly address was enthusiastically received and heartily endorsed. A full text of his address by yesterday's mail, see it in another column. He will probably be re-elected to fill the late term by acclamation, but there are a few aspirants for his place. He is not a candidate for re-election and will not accept if there is even any perceptible minority opposition. The body has quickly settled down to practical business matters. I will give the readers of The Canadian a full report in next issue.

PRESIDENT L. POLK'S ADDRESSES.

sweat and toil of these men rejected and imposed disabilities, that body adjured, leaving not one single act on its record for the benefit of the people. In the light of a plain lesson of history—that all the civilizations worthy the name that have lived and passed away—perished under the iron hand of money power—that those who control the money of a country control the destinies of its people, is not our imperative duty as a people to establish such barriers and limitations as will arrest the evident and alarming tendency to centralization and consolidation?

This was one of the grand purposes of the measures presented to Congress. It would have uprooted our injurious and oppressive national bank system by securing to the people an adequate amount of money direct from the government at a low rate of interest, to have met the legitimate demands of the country. But in justification of the silent contention which characterized the recommendations of this measure, with its intricacies, sophistry, and artifices of skilled demagogery, was substituted for merely argument as to its underlying principles. But the discussion and investigation of our demands has added constantly to their favor and strength, till today they stand of the unqualified head of the sentiment of our Order in thirty-four States of the Union.

More and more are the great masses of the people learning to comprehend the dimensions and powers of the government as their general agent. What right has that general agent to issue the people's money to corporations at a cost of 1 per cent, and license those corporations to loan it to the people at a cost of 8 to 21 per cent? We believe with Thomas Jefferson that—"the power to issue money should be taken from the banks and returned to the people directly to Congress to be used by it rightly."

We believe with James G. Blaine, not only that "the one decisive element in the national bank system is that it requires the permanence of national debt as the basis of its existence," but that any such system inherently false and wrong and cannot be justified on any principle of justice or equity. We believe with Abraham Lincoln, who had uttered a true prophecy when he said and has since repeated, "The only way to stop the progress of Wall street is to shall the intrigues of foreign capital be invoked to aid in fomenting upon this country a policy, the legitimate fruits of which will be the production of millionaires and paupers! Will the two political parties stigmatize themselves by discrediting and repudiating their repeated pledges of this subject? Will they bow before the mandates of money and corporate power and force upon the country such a policy as will produce a fierce and bitter antagonism between capital and productive labor?

A GREAT TEST OF MANHOOD.

Great national exigencies or emergencies are crucial tests of the spirit, the manhood, the courage, the wisdom and the patriotic love of a people. Liberty was never won or preserved, through lavish dependence or cringing doubt.

Now, as never before in our history, do the demands of the hour call loudly for the most heroic and courageous devotion to duty. Men of loftiest cast of moral heroism; men who will firmly condemn the wrong and manfully defend the right; men whose conception of duty lifts them to a plane of noble purpose and resolve far above all considerations of a mere partizan character; men who believe that he who serves his time and generation best serves himself; men, the horizon of whose patriotism and unselfish love of country entitles them to the highest rank in every class in this broad land; men, who, like the citizens of this great republic and as patriots and patriots, will possess the manly courage to illustrate and declare at the ballot box their devotion to the heaven inspired principle: "Equal rights to all and special privileges to none."

Our Constitution declares that Congress shall have power to regulate commerce among the several States. What are the essential elements or factors of commerce? Money, transportation and the transmission of intelligence. Does Congress regulate money? Los Angeles regulates money, the volume of money? Organized capital demands that Congress should degrade and destroy our legal-tender currency and establish in lieu thereof national banks of issue, which should be based alone on interest-bearing government bonds. Congress obeyed. Organized capital bought the bonds at about half their face value, and thus monopolized the bond market of the country. Or organized capital demanded that Congress expand the tax-free status of existing Congress obeyed. The capital monopolized the control of the volume of currency. Organized capital demanded that Congress should degrade and destroy our legal-tender currency and establish in lieu thereof national banks of issue, which should be based alone on interest-bearing government bonds. Congress obeyed. Organized capital bought the bonds at about half their face value, and thus monopolized the bond market of the country.

Our patriotism, our loyal veneration for the immortal principles of our father—our love of liberty—our appreciation of our government, and all the high and noble principles which distinguish true citizenship and abhor excelled our patriotic party. It boldly and unblushingly stands to day in the capital of a great State of this Union and impudently offers to purchase the dignity, the integrity, the honor, and the good name of that State for a stipulated sum. We see it perpetrate the greatest outrage and crime of demonizing silver through stealth and fraud. When the manufacturer in the open field complains to Congress that he is unable to compete with fair and legitimate competition, that body, in a spirit of most paternal generosity, rushes to his relief with a system which forces the people of the country to sell their products in the cheapest markets, and buy all articles of manufacture produced in the foreign markets.

When syndicates of ship owners and railroad corporations conspire to Congress that their investments have become unprofitable, that body with parental magnanimity, bestows upon them lavish subsidies in land, money, and government credit. When the bondholders and money speculators of Wall street, overreaching even their greedy design, become involved in complications which threaten to thwart their schemes, they hurriedly appeal to the Secretary of the Treasury to hire to run to their relief with liberal loans of the people's money, or graciously relieve them of their bonds at the liberal premium of 25 per cent.

All this, and more, the farmers of the country have witnessed and endured; and yet with 9,000,000 of American homes mortgaged, with two thirds of the wealth of the country taxed, with the overburdened interest of agriculture paying 10 per cent of the total taxes when farms are taxed at their greatest capacity appears at the doors of Congress to demand respectful application—not for subsides, not for protection, not for loans on fictitious values, not for loans on evidences of indebtedness; but for a system of finance, based upon securities of ready and unquestioned value, they are contemptuously ignored.

As an organization composed of loyal and law-abiding citizens, as American freemen, we claim the right to enter our homes, and to protest against this condition of affairs.

Adopting, we have, the peaceful and legitimate method, which harmonizes with the true spirit of freedom, of presenting our grievances in a proper and legal manner, we have the right, at least, respectful consideration. But if in the maddest frenzy of partial and blindless, party leaders, the party spirit of the two great political parties themselves shall drive us to the conviction of right and duty—it is so. Let the firm and harmonious action of this body, at least, show that there is no faltering of purpose, or determination, to stand united on our just demands.

Rev. Sam. Small was attacked in Atlanta barber shop last week by a bar keeper and one of his teeth pulled out.

The New York Legislature is still in doubt. The Republicans seem to have the Senate and the Democrats the House.

Steps for securing funds for the monument to Jefferson Davis, to be erected in Richmond, Va., will be inaugurated at an early date.

sweat and toil of these same rejected and impudent politicians, that body adjourned, leaving not one single act on its record for the benefit of the people. In the light of a plain lesson of history—that all the civilizations worthy the name that have lived and passed away perished under the iron hand of money power that then controlled the money power of a country, control the destinies of a people, establish such barriers and limitations as will arrest the evident and alarming tendency to centralize and集中 money power in this country.

This was one of the grand purposes of the measures presented to Congress. It would have supplied our injuriously unjust and oppressive national bank system by securing to the people an adequate sum of money direct from the government at a low rate of interest, to have met the legitimate demands of the country. But in justification of the silent contempt which characterized the reception of this measure, and with the artfulness, sophistry, and adroitness of skilled demagogues—men of action—vehement and persistent as aspirants for martyrdom as to its underlying principles, the bill was withdrawn at once, and those demands were relegated entirely to their favor and strength, till today they stand of the equal head of the sentiment of our Order in thirty-four States of the Union.

More and more are the great masses of the people learning to comprehend the duties, functions, and powers of the government as their general agent. What right has the government to issue the paper currency? to corporations of 1 per cent, and license those corporations to loan it to the people at a cost of 8 to 21 per cent? We believe that Thomas Jefferson said that "the power to loan money should be taken from the banks and restored to the people and to Congress, to which it rightfully belongs." We believe with James G. Blaine, not only that the government is a great power, but that it is a great people subjected to the humiliating force of subordinating this nation to those powers at whose behest the great and injurious outrage of its demonstration was accomplished? Will Congress aggravate and augment this great crime by obeying the dictates of Wall street? Shall the intrigue of foreign capital be invoked to aid in fæcinating upon this country a policy, the legitimate fruits of which are to be the destruction of our industries and progress? Will the two political parties identify themselves by disdaining and repudiating their repeated pledges on this subject? Will they bow before the mandates of money and corporate power and force upon the country such a policy as will produce a fierce and bitter antagonism between capital and productive labor?

A GREAT TEST OF MANHOOD. Great men are great geniuses, original, especially for the spirit of the manhood, the courage and the patriotism of a people. Liberty was never won or preserved, through slavish dependence or cringing doubt. Now, as never before in our history, do the demands of the hour call earnestly for men of integrity; men of unwavering devotion to principle; men who will not flinch before the truth; who will not shrink from the task of exposing the baseless and specious arguments of the enemies of manhood as the basis of his existence, but that any such system is inherently false and wrong and cannot be justified on any principle of justice or equity. We believe that Abraham Lincoln could have uttered so true prophecy had his hand and pen been guided by inspiration, when he wrote: "The money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until all wealth is aggregated in a few hands, and the Republic is lost."

The Constitution declares that Congress shall have power to regulate commerce among the several States. What are the essential elements or factors of commerce? Money, transportation and the transmission of intelligence. Does Congress regulate these? Does Congress regulate money—the value and volume of money? Organized capital does not demand that Congress shall regulate the destruction of legal-tender currency and establish in lieu thereof national banks of issue, which should be based alone on interest-bearing government bonds. Congress obeyed.

Organized capital bought the bonds at about half their face value, and thus monopolized the basis of one banking system. Or organized capital demanded that Congress should tax State banks out of existence. Congress obeyed. The volume of currency. Organized capital demanded that Congress should outlaw land as security for loans from these banks. Congress obeyed. Thus the requirements upon which these banks must be operated were limited, chiefly to stocks, bonds and personal notes, while values were to be manipulated, regulated and dictated by organized capital through its stock exchanges, and the market value of power conferred upon Congress by the Constitution to regulate money, its value and volume, was virtually surrendered and transferred to capitalistic combination.

But the Constitution further confers upon Congress the exclusive right to make money. Does not this reservation of the exclusive right to make money carry with it the unavoidable obligation to furnish it in sufficient amounts to meet the fiscal needs of the State demands of the country? What has been the effect of conferring upon capital these extraordinary privileges and power? Just what it has been in all the ages and in all countries of the past—the fearful augmentation of centralized money power, to the impoverishment and robbery of honest industry. At present, with a population of 30,000,000, we had a demand for $2,000,000,000 in money. There was no undue or injurious inflation. In all the departments of industry enjoyed remunerative prices for its products, and prosperity, peace, contentment and plenty abounded throughout the land. Every artery of business, of trade and of enterprise thrived with the healthful and invigorating flow of an ample supply of money. The population of 63,000,000, and a corresponding growth in all departments of industry and enterprise, the volume of which has been reduced to about $60,000,000, with the uniform and inevitable result which has always and everywhere followed an under contradiction—high priced money and low priced products, cutting distress, poverty, want and responsibility.

Our ORGANIZATION, ITS PROGRESS AND CONDITION.

Notwithstanding the oft-repeated assertion of our friends that our organization is in a state of decay, decline, etc., we it is steadily enlarged the area of its jurisdiction, and since its organization there has been no time when it was in flux, more united, or in more thorough and harmonious accord on our principles and purposes than it is to day. Perhaps a more striking or conclusive proof of this can be found in the remarkable increase and delight with which this noble and great organization body out of about forty thousand members, of whom a single member out of millions, is heralded and extolled by the partizans of the cause of the country. We have added to our rank, and to our strength, and to our influence, and to our popularity, and that the people, dear by the government, at a low rate of interest, and in sufficient volume to meet the requirements of our growing population and trade.

THE SUPERIORITY OF OUR ORGANIZATION.

Evidence is not wanting to warrant the conclusion that it is the deliberate purpose of the two great parties of the country to avoid, evade, and ignore this great issue in their platforms and campaigns.

That is their deliberate purpose to divert the minds of the people from it, by giving undue and magnified prominence to those questions of secondary importance, which have in this regard served the purposes of the money power so well and so faithfully for the past quarter of a century. With their sole and main object pledges on the side of the country of the country and before the world was won over either of them in a single State or a single Congressional district in their campaigns of 1890 or 1891. —At his home in this city last week, shortly after 6 o'clock, Mr. Tom J. Johnson, widely known throughout Eastern North Carolina as the traveling agent of the Messenger, passed away quite afte, an illness of several weeks. "Rom" was a quiet, generous, honest man. His friends were many and warm, and he was worthy of their friendship.—Goldsboro Argus —Synopsis of laws relating to gambling at fairs: "All games of chance, wheel of fortune, &c., forbidden; all persons who lose money may sue the officers of the fair to recover money; duty of grand jury to present officers of fair for violation of this act." We are glad to know that this law is not necessary for our fair, as our officers shall pay special attention to see that nothing of the like will be allowed at this fair.

—Our Eight Thousand Issue.

Over 8,000 copies of THE CAUCASIAN have been sent off this week. It has been a very important and busy week with us. Though we were very fortunate in getting President Dow's address and later news from the Indianapolis Convention, we were very much hurried, but with all our trouble we have sent out a very large number of papers.

The Temple of Diana.

round or even contrasting something for the splendor of all its architectural successors.

Two hundred and twenty years was this last temple in construction. Twice as long as the United States has stood was that temple in building. It was nearly twice as long as St. Paul's cathedral, London. Let it should be disturbed by earthquakes, which have always been fond of making those regions their playground, the temple was built on a marsh, which was made firm by layers of charcoal covered by fleeces of wool. The stone came from the quarry near by. After it was decreed to build the temple, it was thought it would be necessary to bring the building stone from other lands, but one day a shepherd by the name of Pixodorus, while watching his flock, saw two rams fighting, and as they missed the interlocking of their horns, and one fell, his horn knocked a splinter from the rock and showed by that splinter the austere whiteness of the rock.

NOTED CHRISTIANS OF EPHESUS.

In this city the mother of the church was said to have been buried. Here dwelt Aquilla and Priscilla of Bible mention, who were professors in an extemporized theological seminary, and they taught the eloquent Apollos how to be eloquent for Christ. Here John preached, and from here because of his fidelity he was called to Patmos. Here Paul warned against the magical arts for which Ephesus was famous. The sorcerers of this city pretended that they could cure diseases, and perform almost any miracle, by pronouncing these senseless words, "Aski Cataski Lix Tetra Diannemus Aishon."

Paul having performed a miracle in the name of Jesus, there was a lying family of seven brothers who imitated the apostle, and instead of their usual words of incarnation, used the words of Jesus over a man who was possessed of a devil, and the man possessed flew at them in great fierceness and nearly tore them fronds to pieces, and in consequence all up and down the streets of Ephesus there was indignation excited among the magical arts, and a great bonfire of magical books was kindled in the streets, and the people shamed the blaze until thirty-five thousand dollars, worth of black art literature had burned to ashes.

But all the glory of Ephesus I have described has gone now. At some time of the year awful malarias sweep over the place and put upon matress or in graves a large portion of the population. In the approximate marshes scorpions, centipedes and all forms of reptile life crawl and hiss and sting, while hyenas and jackals at night stalk in and out of the ruins of buildings which once startled the nations with their almost supernatural grandeur.

But here is a lesson which has never been drawn out. Do you not see that in the temple of Diana an expression of God who can provide food. Diana was a huntress. In pictures on many of the coins she had a stag by the horn with one hand and a bundle of arrows in the other. Oh, this is a hungry world! Diana could not give one pound of meat or one mouthful of food to the millions of her worshippers. She was a dead divinity, an imaginary god, and so idolatrous lands the vast majority of people never have enough to eat.

It is only in the countries where the God of heaven and earth is worshipped that the vast majority have enough to eat. Let Diana have her arrows and her bows; our God has the sunshine, and the showers, and the harvests, and in proportion as he is worshipped does mighty reign.

So also in the temple of Diana the world expressed its need of a refuge. To it from all parts of the land came debtors who could not pay their debts and offenders of the law that they might escape incarceration, but she sheltered them only a little while, and when she kept them from arrest she could not change their hearts and the guilty remained guilty, but our God in Jesus Christ is a refuge into which we may fly from all our sins and all our pursuers, and not only safe but sound.

One day a friend was describing to her a noted artist, about whom her curiosity had been greatly aroused, but whom she had never seen.

"To begin with," remarked the friend, "he has a perfect Niagara of a forehead!"

"What?" said the other. "Do you mean to tell me the poor man has a cataract over both eyes?"—Exchange.
